Storyboarding

A way to show the key elements and interactions of a scenario using images

The power of a good story lies in its ability to capture people's imagination and take them to new places. Walt Disney said, "In our studio we don't write stories, we draw them." Through drawing, he and his team visualized their work before going into full production. Storyboarding is an ideal way to visualize people experiencing your idea in action. Since storyboards are built using mostly images, they can help teams communicate ideas more clearly and evocatively than words alone. Storyboards don't have to be masterful pieces of art; they just need to show a meaningful series of events.

Benefits

Shows what a concept looks like in action
Helps people imagine the future
Builds shared understanding
Gains support from decision-makers

Learn more at LUMA Workplace

Once upon a time,the christmas season has started.

A little girl who early waiting for X-mas and she wishes a suprise gift from santa claus.

Santa Claus also received a letter of wishes of the little girl.

Santa claus was shocked after seeing the letter of wishes of the little girl.

The wish of the liitle girl was that he need a icecream which is in the shape of his cap and his cap is like cone shape.

After few hours, Santa has an idea to make a icecream in cone by using different color of waffle.

A separate waffle can be fold with many flavour and a scoop of icecream can be on top of cone and also look like santa cap and it said to be cone icecream.

Santa gave a gift to a Little girl and he surprised the girl with her wish.

And finally, the little girl was so happy and she shared the gift to her friends and thren the cone icecream has introduced by this way..

Preparation

Identify an idea or concept to develop
Assemble a diverse group of collaborators

Helpful hints

Take advantage of the Icons and Draw tools
Get inspiration from the way comic books are drawn
Use a variety of angles (panoramic, close-up, etc.)

See an example

Activity step-by-step

Draft the main story line. Describe each key frame in a caption.

Once you have completed the script, illustrate each frame.

Share with stakeholders for feedback and revision.